Hot Weather Don'ts.

Don't worry about the weather.
Don't walk on the sunny side of the street.
Don't work unless you have to, and they work slowly.
Don't fail to carry an umbrella if you are exposed long to the sun's rays.
Don't drink anything to excess. Ice water is about as bad as anything else.
Don't use a fan. The exercise of working it will overcome all the good you experience.
Don't think it is the hottest day you ever experienced, and if you do think it don't say it.
Don't be afraid of perspiration. It is a sign and it reduces the temperature of the body.
If you follow out the majority of these don'ts you will feel that you followed the injunction to keep cool.
Don't feel it a duty to look at the thermometer every ten or fifteen minutes during the middle of the day.
Don't make a meal largely made up of meats. Vegetables come at this season of the year especially for the benefit of men.—Washington Post.

Strange & Summersby.

The Sensational Liear.
A Topeka correspondent of the St. Louis Republic gives a sensational history of the Eureka Irrigation Canal. As usual in such cases the truth is very much enlarged. This would be were it not for the fact that a perversion of history regarding the Soule College is made as an accompaniment to the canal story. He states that the college is inhabited by "bats and owls," and meaning that it is a monument of boom folly situated on the barren prairie within the confines of the canal. This story will travel much further than a correction of it, having a few days the start, but we can offer an emphatic denial of the absurdity. Soule College is one of the institutions of Dodge City, of which every citizen is proud. It is conducted under the auspices of the Methodist Episcopal church, with a faculty of highly educated and well trained teachers, and having a large number of well advanced pupils, with prospects of a much larger attendance for the next college year. A denial of the "Owl and bat" story has been sent to the Republic for publication.

He—You needn't worry, you'll never die young, my love.—Truth.
